

Pigs on a Blanket: Where Did the Time Go?

How did the Pigs waste so much time? See if you can figure out how the time went by:

- 11:30 The Pigs decided to turn off the TV and head for the beach.
It took 10 minutes for the kids to be ready. What time was it now? _____
It took 5 more minutes for Mrs. Pig to be ready. What time was it now? _____
It took Mr. Pig a whole hour to be ready. If he started at 11:30, what time was it when he was finally ready to leave? _____
How long did the kids have to wait for their Dad? _____ minutes
How long did Mrs. Pig have to wait for Mr. Pig? _____ minutes
- They all got in the car, but then no one could find the keys. They had to look all over.
It was 1:45 by the time they finally started to drive. They drove 45 minutes and reached a railroad crossing.
What time was it when they got to the railroad crossing? _____
They had to wait 25 minutes for the train to pass.
What time was it when the last car finally passed? _____
They drove just 5 more minutes before the piglets said they needed a bathroom.
What time was it now? _____
- It took 2 minutes for Mr. Pig to make an illegal U-Turn and get to the bathroom.
It took 13 minutes for the policeman to write him a ticket.
How many minutes was that in all? _____ minutes
- They arrived at the beach at 3:30 but then it took Mr. Pig a whole hour to wait on line and get some food. What time was it then? _____
- It took ten minutes to eat. What time was it when they finished eating? _____
- Before swimming, Mrs. Pig made them wait 50 minutes to digest their food. If they started waiting at 4:40 and waited 50 minutes. What time was it then? _____
- How much time went by from when the first they left the house (at 11:30) and when they were finally ready to swim (at 5:30)? _____
- They walked on the beach for awhile. Then they packed up and got into their car by 6:30. When they got home it was 8:00. How long did it take to drive home? _____